Post Season

If you're an adult, and you've read the camp brochure or watched the DVD and said "Let's go to camp ourselves!"... then you should come to Post Season Family Camp. But bring the kids too!

Post Season is the chance for adults and families to take a camp vacation. We program for a very active week! We take lots of trips to nearby rivers, rocks and wilderness areas. There's whitewater paddling for those who have the skills or can resurrect them from past years, or rafting for "river rats" not ready for a canoe or kayak. There's mountain biking at all skill levels, and hiking and rock climbing (including mostly day trips, but overnights too on demand). In camp, there are riding lessons and trail riding, sailing, tennis, swimming, and crafts. We'll teach you to paddle a canoe or a kayak, or let you experiment on your own. (You do have to be a good swimmer, about intermediate level, and you have to take a swim test). And though we love to do active, adventurous stuff, we can also arrange evenings at the movies, excursions to local places of interest, square dances, cook-outs, and other laid-back kinds of activities.

Cabins are... well, rustic. Screened, cots or bunks, right in camp and convenient to activities. Some have their own baths; some have central baths and are therefore suitable only for male occupancy (central baths are not segregated). Also available and not so rustic: the Ark (paneled room on the water, queen bed, ideal for a couple); the Gap (three room, two bath apartment); Nancy's Cottages (our newest cabins, one-room, paneled with bath and kitchenette, queen bed, perfect for a couple); Pooh Corner (renovated staff cabin at Green Cove with 4 bedrooms and 2 baths); Green Cove Infirmary (2 bedrooms, 3 twin beds or one twin and one king, sleeping porch and kitchen). Pooh Corner, the Green Cove Infirmary and the cabins at Green Cove are about a mile from camp; you'll need to use your car to get back and forth. The dining room and most activities are at Mondamin.

All facilities are used at the user's risk, and camp reserves the right to determine readiness for any activity, such as whitewater canoeing. We'll ask you to sign a waiver regarding potential hazards associated with activities. Facilities are shared with August Campers, but we rarely get in each others' way.

Singles and couples, with and without kids, camp alums or not, ages 0 - 95... welcome! August camp, for children ages 6 to 10, runs simultaneously.

August Camp

In addition to Family Camp we offer a one-week August Camp for the young folks not quite ready for three or five weeks of camping. It's for boys and girls ages 6-10, co-ed, and runs concurrently with Post Season at Mondamin.

Kids live in cabins with counselors; it's meant to be an introduction to our regular camp programs, and is similar in activities (swimming, sailing, canoeing, crafts, horses, tennis, hiking and camping), though of course at a beginning level. Lots of games, campfires, story-telling, etc. make it a really fun week.

So, a family might come to camp as a family and stay together in a cabin, or kids of the appropriate age might join the one-week camp program. Or, you can stay home and send your 6 to 10-year old to camp for the week... and to be truthful, it's a better first time camp experience if parents aren't nearby. (There's also a short introductory camp in early June.)

We do require adequate swimming skills for boating, as we do for all campers and guests, but there is lots to do even for a non-swimmer. (And, of course, we'll work hard on swimming skills). August Camp is small (usually under 60 campers), but a lot of fun!
